FORMER MANAGER OF 'JEWISH VOICE' RETURNS, ARRESTED

Herbert D. White, Charged
With Financial Irregularities, Says Jail Is Preferable to Suspense.

TELLS OF LOSING AT POKER EVERY NIGHT

Paid $125 a Month Rent for Apartment and Lived Beyond His Means, He Tells Detectives.

Herbert D. White, 38 years old, of 4349 Cates avenue, who until July 15 was general manager and treasurer of the Jewish Voice Corporation, publishers of a number of Jewish papers, and who disappeared from his home following the discovery of irregular financial transactions in connection with his work, was arrested at Union Station at 8 a. m. today when he alighted from a Chicago train. He was pointed out to detectives by employees of the Jewish Voice Corporation who had been told that he was returning to St. Louis.

At Police Headquarters White admitted to Harry Specter, vice president of the corporation, in the presence of detectives and newspaper reporters that he had obtained $115 on a check signed "M. H. Shepley," and had borrowed $100 on a note for $600, to which he had signed the corporation's name and a note for $100 which he had signed with his own name. He said that he had been living beyond his means.

Played Poker at Night.
"I had to do it to keep up appearances," he told Specter. "I occupied a $125 a month apartment and played poker every night. My wife and I associated with a set that had more money than I had. They owned automobiles. I bought a Ford sedan and still owe $400 on it. I lost an average of $10 a night for 27 weeks playing poker. I could not afford the luxuries we were both enjoying, but I was too much of a moral coward to tell my wife the truth. I was earning $75 a week and we were living very beyond that amount."

"I found myself so deep in debt that I did not know what to do. I tried to borrow money on my own personal note, but was unable to do so. Then I decided to negotiate a loan on the credit of the corporation."

Hoped to Pay Everything.
"I was hoping to pay everything back when Mr. Specter informed me that my accounts had been checked up and found to contain discrepancies. I offered the corporation my automobile and my life insurance policies. That offer was accepted, but later I was informed that it was not a satisfactory adjustment. The corporation wanted the cash."

"I wrote out the check for $115 and drove in my automobile to Chicago. I was in terrible suspense all the time. I wanted to be with my wife and baby. Yesterday I telephoned to my wife that I was coming home. I told her I would rather be in jail than suffering the suspense. The automobile is in a garage in Chicago."

Formerly Owned a Paper.
White formerly owned the Israelite, a Jewish publication at Toledo, which was purchased by the Jewish Voice Corporation about a year ago. White then was employed at Toledo and was sent to this city last January.

Specter charged that White over-drew his salary account $296.70, had not accounted for collections amounting to $639.20, and had borrowed $600 on a note signed by himself as treasurer. He also reported that the check for $115 was for $116. The facts were submitted to the Circuit Attorney.

HARVEY PATHETICALLY SILENT

Paris Midt Says American at Council
Sittings Is Melancholy Figure.
PARIS, Aug. 15.—The Paris Midt says the American delegate's appearance at the sessions of the League of Nations Council.
"Nothing could be more pathetic than the silence of Col. George Harvey and a certain contortion of the mouth which he made during the sittings, lacking the right to have his say. This American figure was pretty melancholy."

Sarah Bernhardt in Good Health.
PARIS, Aug. 15.—Sarah Bernhardt, the world-famous French actress, rumors of whose illness were current here on Saturday, is in good health, says a telegram from an editor on the staff of the Journal. She is spending his vacation on the island of Belle-Ile-en-Mer. He declares he saw Mrs. Bernhardt yesterday at her summer home on the island.

DEADLOCK IN NEGOTIATIONS FOR AMERICAN RELIEF FOR RUSSIAN FAMINE

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 15.
A DEADLOCK was reached today in the negotiations relative to American relief for Russia's famine sufferers between the American Relief Administration and Max Litvinoff, acting on behalf of the Soviet Famine Relief Committee. Action by Washington and Moscow will be necessary to decide the issue, it is declared.
Whether the American Relief Administration will abandon some of its usual methods and permit the Soviets greater control of the personnel and distribution of American food than has been granted any other country which has been aided, has been put up to Herbert Hoover, head of the American Relief Administration, by Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the administration. Pending a reply from Hoover, the conference will stand firm in his refusal to sign some of the American conditions unless ordered to do so by Moscow.

$673,682 ESTATE LEFT BY MRS. KATIE BAKER

Inventory Shows $23,850 Cash
Among Holdings—Part Owner of Wainwright Building.

An inventory of the estate of Mrs. Katie A. Baker, who died July 15, was filed today. It shows that she left an estate of $673,682.51, including notes, $225,328.22; stocks, $261,483.90; bonds and coupons, $165,960; cash, $23,850.95; goods and chattels, $2059.50. She had $34,000 in Liberty Bonds.

Mrs. Baker, who resided at 4915 West Pine boulevard, was the widow of Edward Baker and a sister of Ellis Wainwright, a former St. Louis brewer, and was part owner of the Wainwright Building at Seventh and Chestnut streets. She divided her estate equally between her daughters, Dorothy Baker and Mrs. Clark Kretschmar.

$433,788 VALUE OF PERSONAL ESTATE OF A. H. HANDLAN

Late Head of Manufacturing Company Also Had Large Real Estate Holdings.

An inventory of the estate of Alexander H. Handlan, president of the Handlan-Ruck Manufacturing Co., who died May 28 at his summer home in Oconomowoc, Wis., was filed today. Personality of $433,788.36 and large real estate holdings are listed.

The personality includes notes of $188,202.76; stock, $97,112; bonds and coupons, $121,221.16; cash, $89,304.57; and goods and chattels, $384,551. Included in the cash is an insurance policy for $70,745.25.

The real estate includes the site of Handlan's Park at Grand and Laclede avenues, houses and property at 3550 Laclede avenue, 3528-30 and 3532 Pine street and 3520 West Pine boulevard; 206 North Grand avenue, 3523-25-27 Clark avenue and property at Garfield and Rice streets, and also 10111 street, as well as 573 Clarendon avenue. Eighty acres in Madison County, 220 acres in Reynolds County and 160 acres in Wayne County, Missouri, and 150 acres in Harris County, Texas, and his summer home at Oconomowoc, also are listed.

Handlan's will made several specific bequests and placed the residue of the estate in trust for 20 years. The income was to be divided in four shares of 12 1/2 per cent for his daughters and three shares of 16 per cent each for his sons, except that the share of Mrs. M. J. Trautz, a daughter, was left to her child, Kathryn Handlan.

Since Increased Rates
Went Into Effect.

GROSS INCOME FOR PERIOD $1,843,499

Operating Expenses, Which Totalled $1,428,897, Included $100,000 for Replacements.

A deficit of $40,376.26 in the operations of the Laclede Gas Light Co. for the months of April, May and June of this year, is shown in a copy of a quarterly report sent by the company to Director of Public Utilities Hooke today with notice that the original would be filed with the State Public Service Commission.

The report covers the entire period in which the increased rates now in effect have prevailed. These increases became effective April 8 last, under authorization of the State Public Service Commission, which ordered that the rates be increased from 85, 60 and 50 cents to $1.05, 95 and 85 cents the 1000 cubic feet.

The company had asked for increases to $1.25, $1 and 90 cents. Gross income for the quarter was $1,843,499.

As given in the statement, the gross income for the three-month period was $1,843,499.67. Operating expenses were $1,428,897.23 and net earnings $414,602.44. Expenditures for interest were $11,746.70 and the amount paid in preferred stock dividends was $31,250.

The report shows that the company in April, May and June sold 98,718 tons of coke at an average price of $7.45 a ton.

The report on sales of gas at the various rates is as follows: At $1.05 a cubic foot, 748,560.6 thousands for $782,462.63; at 95 cents, 36,811.4 thousands for $34,970.85; at 85 cents, 642,384.7 thousands for $546,444.46; at 60 cents, 27,726.5 thousands for $16,635.90; at 50 cents, 92,238.3 thousands for $46,119.15. Sales at the minimum rate of approximately 10 cents were 672,635 thousands for $67,263.50.

Total Sales, 1,590,447 Feet.
The total sales of gas were 1,590,447.8 thousands, for which the company received $1,535,757.18.

For street lighting the company furnished 76,542.7 thousands at 80 cents the thousand, for $61,234.22. In forfeited discounts and advances the company took in $16,144.45.

In lighting receipts for gas, including that furnished for street lighting, were $1,617,157.95. The receipts from the company's electric lighting business were $174,924.44; from the sale of Pintsch gas, $1,168,750.11 for the manufacture of gas, $132,444.58 for the manufacture of electricity, $27,684.24 for the manufacture of Pintsch gas.

MAN HOLDS UP KROGER STORE SECOND TIME IN FORTNIGHT

Chides Manager for Actions on Former Visit and Locks Him
in a Washroom.

William Distelhorst, manager of the Kroger store at 1908 North Garrison avenue, was visited at 7:30 a. m. today by a man whose face seemed familiar. When the man spoke Distelhorst remembered.

"Say, listen here," he said. "I told you the other time I was here to stay in the store and keep still 10 minutes after I left and you didn't do it. I'll see that you stay this time. Get into that wash room."

The man was so persuasive, with a revolver in his hand, that Distelhorst went in. The door was locked, the robber took $5 from the cash register and departed. Distelhorst pounded on the door until a customer heard him and released him.

The other time, which was two weeks ago, the robber got $26. This time made the eighty-sixth Kroger store robbery since August, 1919.

MRS. OBENCHAIN IN COURT; FORMER HUSBAND AT SIDE

Woman Near Collapse on Reading of Indictment
Charging Her and Burch
With Murder.

WEEK'S EXTENSION OF TIME FOR PLEA

Little Emotion Shown by Burch in Courtroom—
Father of Accused Man in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 15.—Arthur C. Burch and Mrs. Marylynne Obenchain, arraigned today in the Superior Court here on an indictment charging the murder of J. Belmont Kennedy, asked for an extension of time in which to plead. They were granted until Aug. 22.

Under the California laws the defendants were entitled to a two days' extension.

Mrs. Obenchain appeared to be on the verge of collapse as she listened to the reading of the indictment which charged she and Burch with the murder of Kennedy, her former sweetheart. Burch displayed no emotion.

Mrs. Obenchain, with a woman Deputy Sheriff, walked to the Hall of Justice. She leaned heavily on the deputy's arm. Ralph R. Obenchain, her former husband, sat with her during the proceedings.

As Burch entered the room Mrs. Obenchain glanced casually in his direction then looked away. The eyes of the prisoners did not meet during the entire proceedings.

Obenchain arrived in this city late yesterday and after a conference with the prisoner declared himself sure of his former wife's innocence.

On the same train from the East, also in response to a telegraphed request that he come here, was the Rev. William A. Burch of Evanston, Ill. The churchman came to be at the side of his son Arthur C. Burch.

Mrs. Obenchain has been held since the night of the slaying, in her presence, of the man whom she has said was her fiance.

Burch, who is said to have rented an automobile, track of which were found in Beverly Glen, the place of the shooting, and who became involved in evidence supplied by witnesses before investigators, was arrested in Las Vegas, Nev., on his way East the day after the shooting occurred.

3-BILLION-DOLLAR TAX BILL TO GO TO HOUSE LATE TODAY

Republicans Plan to Begin Consideration of It in House Wednesday and
Have Vote Saturday.

$600,000,000 CUT IN BURDEN SEEN

Surtaxes, Higher Income and Other Levies Reduced;
Exemptions for Heads of Families Increased.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Republicans of the House Ways and Means Committee have decided not to formally introduce the administration tax revision bill until after 5 o'clock this afternoon. Plans call for consideration of the measure to begin Wednesday.

Under a program understood to have been mapped out by House leaders, the Republican conference will approve a special rule providing for passage of the bill next Saturday after two days of general debate and two days for consideration of amendments under the five-minute rule. Priority will be given committee amendments if the present plan goes through.

The bill, as drafted, is designed to raise approximately $3,000,000,000 during the calendar year 1922, and its most outstanding features are provisions for repeal of the excess profits taxes and the income surtaxes in excess of 32 per cent, and an increase in the normal corporation tax of 5 per cent, making the maximum 15 per cent.

Other amendments to the 1918 law include additional exemptions for heads of families and married men receiving small incomes, repeal of the stamp taxes on toilet preparations and proprietary medicines and the substitution of manufacturers' taxes for the so-called nuisance levies.

Majority members of the Ways and Means Committee expect the Republican conference called for today to make few, if any, changes in the committee draft.

Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee expect a study of the measure after it is introduced, with a view to determining whether they will offer a minority report.

The Democratic attack on the bill was launched yesterday by Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee, who warned the administration that the business men of the country were not to be "fooled" by the methods of "political juggling" which he declared the Republicans had adopted in framing their whole tax revision program.

HEARINGS IN ANTI-TRUST SUITS TO BEGIN IN SEPTEMBER

Attorney-General to Take Testimony
Here in Proceedings Against Material Dealers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 15.—Tooling up for the anti-trust suit brought by Attorney-General Barrett against the St. Louis Lumber Trade Exchange, will begin in St. Louis early in September, Barrett said today. Hearings in this and the suits against the St. Louis Planing Millmen's Association and the St. Louis Material Dealers' Association, will be held both in St. Louis and in Jefferson City.

Those in St. Louis probably will be held in the Chamber of Commerce, whose president, W. Frank Carter, is one of the attorneys for the lumber trade exchange. Carter has proffered the rooms of the chamber for the occasion.

Motions filed by the millmen and the material dealers, requesting the court to require the Attorney-General to make his petitions charging them with violation of the anti-trust laws more definite and certain, have not been acted upon, and as the Supreme Court is on vacation no further action can be taken in those cases for the present.

LIGHTNING KILLS ILLINOIS EDITOR ON GOLF LINKS

J. B. Smith of Kankakee Daily Democrat Was Leader in Eastern Illinois Democratic Circles.

By the Associated Press.
KANKAKEE, Ill., Aug. 15.—J. B. Smith, 47, for many years editor and publisher of the Kankakee Daily Democrat and a leader in Eastern Illinois Democratic circles, was struck by lightning Saturday and instantly killed.

Smith had been playing golf when a storm arose and had started for the clubhouse when the bolt struck.

At almost the same time Edward Couture, a farmer, was struck by lightning when riding on a wagon en route to his home west of Kankakee. He will recover.

Man Dies in Desert After 60-Mile Hunt for Water

One of Children Dies of Exposure While Family, Left in Auto, Awaits His Return—Missed
a Reservoir by 50 Yards.

By the Associated Press.
PRESCOTT, Ariz., Aug. 15.—The body of August Kaufman, automobile tourist from Pasadena, Cal., missing since last Wednesday, was found on the desert 50 miles west of Congress Junction, 40 miles south of here, by Mohave County officers yesterday. The man had perished from thirst and exposure, the officers said.

Kaufman, according to officers upon their return here, left his wife and three children in their automobile Wednesday in search of water when he discovered their supply had run low.

Friday night, when he had not returned, his family still waited in the automobile and Lillian, a 3-year-old daughter, died of exposure.

Kaufman wandered through the desert for about 72 hours and covered approximately 60 miles in a zigzag course before he finally collapsed, according to officers. The body was found near Signal, near the Yuma County line.

In his search Kaufman had passed within 50 yards of an artificial reservoir of water for sheep and cattle, the officers said.

LIQUOR MADE IN COUNTY FILTHY, BARRETT SAYS

"Moonshine" Declared to Be
Vile Stuff Made of Vermin-
Infested Materials.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 15.—St. Louis county "moonshine" is vile stuff, made under the most filthy conditions, Attorney-General Barrett today told newspaper men in discussing the reports of some of his investigators who are inquiring into the liquor situation in the county.

The materials from which bootleggers of the county manufacture their "white mule" are soured and worm infested, and field rats often find their way into the mixture, the reports say.

"There would be no market for moonshine liquor if people knew what it is," Barrett said. The investigators report that it is made under the most filthy conditions. The raw materials used are soured and wormy corn and vermin-infested sugar. The vats are located in unclean barns and open and practically level with the ground. Field rats are attracted and no effort is made to prevent them from falling into the mixture. When the vats are drained, the residue is poured into the same on the sides and bottom of nauseating odor.

"A Brew for Fools," He Says.
"It is a brew for fools. The criminal who matches his greed against men's appetites by selling them this poison is a public menace and should be treated as such. Men are daily being blinded for life, killed or made insane by drinking it. In Kansas City alone, 50 negroes have been made incurably insane and have become public charges on the city. Why talk of sanitation and hygiene or public health laws when a condition like this is permitted to exist."

"The work of crushing these traitors to humanity should not be left merely to a few public officials already overburdened with their multifarious duties; commercial associations, civic bodies, improvement organizations, church clubs and all of the organized forces which profess to stand for public health, public morals or public safety ought to combine to stamp out 'moonshine' as they would a plague or a pestilence."

Board May Intervene if Plan Is Gen- eral One

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Announcement from Marion, O., that the Erie Railroad has leased its shops and roundhouse there to a local operating company, which will handle the road's repair work, may bring intervention by the United States Railway Labor Board, if there is any evidence of a concerted plan on the part of the roads to follow the practice generally, a member of the board said today.

The Railway Service Company, formed at Marion to operate the leased shops, would not be subject to the board's jurisdiction under the transportation act, it was pointed out, as it is not a "common carrier" within the definition of the act. Hence, members of the board said, its employees will not come under the board's wage and rules orders and should all roads follow the plan the shop crafts would be deprived of the benefits of the Eick-Cummings act.

BRIAND TO BE AT DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON

Announcement of French Premier's
Plans Made by Ambassador Hericq.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Premier Briand of France has assured the United States Government that he will personally attend the disarmament conference in Washington beginning Nov. 11.

Announcement of the Premier's intention was contained in a message to the State Department today from Ambassador Hericq, saying he had been informed by the French Office that France had accepted the invitation to attend the conference and that the Premier had assured him that he would "gladly" attend.

DE VALERA REJECTS OFFER OF DOMINION RULE FOR IRISH

Lloyd George for Britain Replies That the Empire Cannot Recognize the Right of Secession for Southern Ireland, but Door Is Declared Open for Further Parleys.

DOCUMENTS SHOW VITAL DIFFERENCES

Dail Eireann to Meet Tomorrow to Consider De Valera
Cabinet's Reply; Position of North Ireland Also Made Clear.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 15.—England today faces a crucial period in the negotiations looking to the establishment of peace in Ireland. The action of the British Government, in making public letters exchanged between Prime Minister Lloyd George and Eamon de Valera, Irish Republican leader, shows the people that a virtual deadlock exists and, although the door is declared to have been left open for further parleys, it is apparent that the situation is one of considerable gravity.

Reports from Dublin, which may indicate what the Irish Republicans will do to counter the unexpected move of the Government in giving the correspondence to the press, are anxiously awaited. It appears the next step should be made in that city, as Lloyd George literally "laid his cards on the table" yesterday, and it seems that De Valera and his colleagues must meet the situation thus created.

Whether they will issue a statement today or will wait until the opening of the Irish Republican Parliament tomorrow, is uncertain. The purpose of the precipitate action of the Government in making public the British proposals and the demands of the Irish Republicans has not been disclosed, but it appears that the Prime Minister ought to lay the Irish problem before the country on the eve of the meeting of the Dail Eireann.

The Government terms, made to Ireland, in brief, follow:
Dominion status for Ireland, with complete autonomy in financial matters, but without tariff or trade restrictions between the island. Ireland would maintain defense forces and police, but her territorial forces would be kept within "reasonable limits."

Ireland would maintain her own postal system but would grant England air defense and communication facilities. Ireland would have control of her own educational and industrial affairs, but the British navy would maintain its hold on the seas around the island. A share of the United Kingdom's debts would be assumed by Ireland, the exact amount to be fixed by arbitration.

De Valera, in reply, demanded full independence for Ireland and suggested a treaty of association with the British Commonwealth group. Treaties regarding trade and limitation of armaments were urged by the Irish Republican chieftain, together with mutual agreements as to air, railway and other communications.

No Compromise on Secession.
De Valera, having refused to accept the proposals of the British Government, constituting dominion status, Lloyd George has informed De Valera that there can be no compromise on the question of the right of Ireland to secede from her allegiance to the King. The Premier tells De Valera that the conditions of the proposed settlement contain no desire to deprive the part of Ireland for British ascendancy over Ireland or the impairment of Ireland's national life.

"Our proposals present to the Irish people," says the Premier, "an opportunity such as never has dawned in their history before. We have made them in a sincere desire to achieve peace, but beyond them we cannot go."

The Ulster problem would be left to the Irish themselves for solution. De Valera declaring that the "employment of force was not contemplated."

The attitude of the Ulster Government was made plain by the making public at Belfast of a letter to Lloyd George from Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, in which he declared that he would "gladly" attend.

Police Say They Know Identity of Driver Said to Have Been Going 35 Miles an Hour.

Miss Sadie Smith, 25 years old, a stenographer, of 1217 Waverly place, who was struck by an automobile at 10 o'clock Saturday night at Lafayette avenue and Waverly place, died at 3:10 o'clock yesterday morning at the city hospital.

Miss Smith and William E. Lauer of 3223 Vista avenue were on their way to her home from a show and were crossing Lafayette avenue toward Waverly place when an automobile approached from the east. Spectators say it was going 35 miles an hour and zig-zagging. Lauer tried to pull Miss Smith out of the way, but she was struck and hurled to the sidewalk. Both legs and her right hip were fractured. She was to have been married next month to Lauer. The license number of the machine was obtained and the police say that the identity of the driver is known and that he will be arrested.

Two Hurt When Auto Is Jammed Into Lamp Post.
At 5:45 p. m. Saturday, Robert Pevioni of 511 North Newstead avenue, driving an automobile on Seventh street, tried to pass a car which had stopped at Franklin avenue. The car started and pinioned the machine against a lamp post. William P. Dittmar, 52, 2502 Semple place, and Mrs. Mildred Roemer, 2142 Elm street, Wellston, who were standing on the sidewalk, were struck by fragments from the lamp post. They received scalp wounds, cuts and bruises. Pevioni was arrested.

Four Thrown Through Shield.
Frank Everston, 4835 Natural Ridge road, Litz Hollos, 4107 Washington avenue, Miss Laura Miller, 2101 Lilly avenue, and Miss Julia Artman, 1428 South Broadway, were in a roadster, with Everston driving, which collided at Clayton road and Yale avenue with the rear of a truck which was standing still. The four were thrown through the windshield. Hollos' right arm and hand were lacerated and one finger broken. Miss Miller's right arm and nose were lacerated. The injuries of the other two were slight. They were taken in an automobile to Clayton and McCausland avenues, from where they were taken to the city hospital in an ambulance. Everston said he was blinded by the headlights of another machine, coming from the opposite direction.

At 11:15 a. m. an automobile containing four men, which spectators said was driven over Eighteenth street bridge at 40 miles an hour, crashed into a telephone post at Eighteenth and Gratiot streets. The men jumped out and ran west on Gratiot street. The automobile was traced to Robert Lafferty, 29, 2612 St. Vincent avenue. He admitted owning it and driving it. He said he did not know the other men. He was held.

Motor Cycle Rider Is Hurt.
A motor cycle driven by William L. Jones, 1440 North Sixteenth street, going west on Souard street, collided at 6:30 p. m. with an automobile driven north on Seventh street by William Platt, 932 Morrison avenue. Jones' left foot was fractured and he received scalp wounds. He was taken to the city hospital.

At 2:30 p. m. a westbound Market car crashed into the rear of a westbound Taylor car on Oakland avenue near the Mounted District Police Station. The vestibule of the Market car was smashed. The motorman, Clarence Hall, 3836 Folsom avenue, was injured about the chest and shoulders. Mrs. Edna Regil, 3419 Washington avenue, was sitting on the sand box holding her son, Pershing, 2 years old. Her back was injured and the child's head was cut. Hall said his brakes failed to work. The Taylor car was not damaged.

Man Stabbed on Street.
Charles Pobst, 40 years old, of 303 Rutger street was stabbed in the left thigh at 5 p. m. yesterday by one of four men who jumped from an automobile and attacked him at Third and Rutger streets. The men escaped. Pobst was taken to the city hospital, where doctors said his condition was serious. Pobst told the police he had a business disagreement with a man some time ago.

WOMAN DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER SHOOTING SELF AT HOME

Samuel Meinberg Says Wife Was in Ill Health—Policeman Hurt in Fall From Ambulance.
Mrs. Luella Mary Meinberg, 46 years old, of 1320A Blackstone avenue, died at the city hospital at 8:20 a. m. today from a bullet wound in the right temple inflicted by herself at 6:30 a. m. Her husband, Samuel Meinberg, a carpet layer, informed the police that she had been ill for several years.

Meinberg said he was cooking his breakfast, when he heard two shots and found his wife unconscious on the floor of their bedroom. He expressed the belief that Mrs. Meinberg had fired a shot through the window to make sure the weapon was in working order before she fired at herself. No trace of the first bullet could be found.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hansen, a daughter of Mrs. Meinberg, told the police that her mother had been an invalid for 20 years and that recently Mrs. Meinberg expressed fear that she was losing her mind. Two years ago, Mrs. Hansen said, Mrs. Meinberg underwent an operation for the removal of an abscess.

When Mrs. Meinberg was being conveyed in an ambulance to the city hospital the door of the ambulance flew open and Patrolman John G. O'Keefe of the Page Boulevard Police Station fell out. His shoulder was fractured and his face was cut. He was given treatment at the hospital and then went to his home.

MAN ACCUSED OF PRIEST'S MURDER TO BE GIVEN HEARING

William E. Hightower Said to Have Tried to Recover Examples of His Writing.
REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Aug. 15.—William E. Hightower, accused of the murder of the Rev. Patrick E. Heslin, was brought here yesterday from San Francisco. Hightower was brought here because this is the seat of San Mateo County, in which Father Heslin is believed to have been slain and in which his body was recovered. He will be given a preliminary hearing here Thursday.

Sloan's Liniment

Hightower made an effort yesterday to recover examples of typewritten found in his rooms and of a letter written to "Dolly Mason." The officers are relying on these to prove Hightower's authorship of the original letter demanding ransom for Father Heslin, the day after he disappeared. They said they believed Hightower sought them so he could destroy them.

UNIONS TO ARRANGE FOR A LABOR SUNDAY
Suggestion Made to Ask Clergy of All Denominations to Recognize Occasion.

Grand Marshal Lee Smith of Labor day parade, announced at yesterday's meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Union that delegates to the parade, and urged unions desirous of joining to send delegates to the next meeting. The parade, which will be held Sunday morning, will be a program of religious service which has been designated by the American Federation as Labor Day. It was suggested that the clergy of all denominations be requested to preach sermons touching the industrial situation.

Union Buton for Carriers.
Delegates representing the Let Carriers' Union announced that members, by a special concession, the Postmaster, will begin wearing buttons on their uniforms, which will signify their membership in the union. This will be continued, it was said, until after the convention of the National Let Carriers' Union, which is to be held here Sept. 10. The wearing of the buttons, it was said, will be for the purpose of trying to increase the membership of the union.

A letter from President Gompers was read in which he called attention to the fact that the American Federation of Labor at its recent convention adopted a resolution urging that all public work be hastened to relieve the industrial depression. The communication was referred to the Legislative Committee with instructions to take the matter up with the city officials.

Announcement was made that the street car men's annual picnic will be held Aug. 29, 30 and 31, at 7:00 a. m. at 4100 South Broadway. Cheryman to Be Marshal.
The Rev. Carl Reed Taylor, pastor of Grace Episcopal Church, 20 North Twelfth street, who is a former member of the Central Trades and Labor Union, was elected to serve as marshal for the central parade in the Labor day parade.

Joseph P. Ryan, international vice president of the Boilermakers and Helpers' Union, informed delegates that the several boiler manufacturers, who adopted an open shop plan June 25, whose 350 union employees have been on strike since, had reduced the controversy to conclusion and had rejected the offer of Rer. Timothy Dempsey to a mediator.

BRYAN SAYS PARTIES ARE SCRAMBLED ON TAX ISSUES

Commoner Passes Through St. Louis on Way From Moberly, Mo., to Brazil, Ind.
William Jennings Bryan, Chautauqua-jumping from Moberly, Mo., to Brazil, Ind., stopped in Union Station today long enough to give to reporters his views on the tax reduction situation in Washington.

"The Democrats and Republicans at present appear to be so scrambled on this issue," he said, "that they like the two drunken men who staggered home to their wives to tell which was which. I believe most of the Democrats will vote for measures reducing the tax on small incomes as much as on large ones. A few may vote to shift the tax from excess profits upon the masses. This will be a day of reckoning for sure."

ADVERTISEMENTS
WARE WASTE AND WEAR WELL!
Human Bodies Are Poisoned by Their Own Waste. Most Illnesses Are Preventable.

The human body has to be heated, fine foods burned inside the body to produce much waste. All this waste must be removed from the body regularly, daily, by the elimination of organs—which are the bowels, lungs, skin, and to some extent, the kidneys. If the bowels are inactive, effort is required of the other organs, which become deranged. Medicines will force bowel action temporarily but the after-effects are harmful. Many remedies are advertised, some of which have produced year after year to be reliable, efficient, and without harmful action effect. Take Beecham's Pills for example. For over 70 years Beecham's has been a household word by all sorts of folks, men, women, and even children have proven that Beecham's Pills do what is claimed for them; second, that they are harmless, do not produce effects. Some medicine forces nature to unnatural action. Other medicine, like those contained in Beecham's Pills assist Nature, act mildly, persuade and hence produce no harmful effects. It is common to find films in which Beecham's have been used by several generations, it has been handed down from father to son and from mother to daughter. That's the best possible recommendation for any remedy. Druggists sell Beecham's, it is glad to do so because he knows that its reputation has been won by millions.

Fire in Home Causes Riot Call.
When policemen at 1 a. m. today responded to a telephone message that there was a riot at 4342 Cote brilliant avenue they found the house on fire. It was the home of Robert Guest, a negro. After Guest and his wife had been awakened by smoke, Guest fired four revolver shots as an alarm and neighbors thought there was a riot. Mrs. Guest jumped from a second-story window. Her husband, who had jumped out of the window with a mattress, had placed the mattress on the ground for her to jump on, but she missed it. Her spine was injured.

MURDER BY MARINES IN DOMINGO CHARGED

Advisor to San Domingo Commission in U. S. Reports to Senate Investigating Body.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Charges that American marines sent to San Domingo by this Government committed murders, terrorized the people and burned their homes were presented to the Senate committee investigating conditions since the American occupation in 1916 by Horace G. Knowles, adviser and assistant to the Dominican National Commission in the United States, in a report made public yesterday.

Declaring there was no justification for the sending of armed forces to the island, and that their presence constituted "an act of war," the report asserted that evidence could be submitted to the committee to prove charges of the "policy of suppression, repression, oppression and maladministration."

Other charges made in the report were: "That excesses, abuses, cruelty and murders were committed by the marines, the people terrorized and their homes burned."

"That the orders issued and enforced by the military government were unreasonable, cruel and totally un-American."

"That private rights were invaded, and personal and corporate property injured, damaged or destroyed by the military government or its agents, and great losses incurred because of them and their orders."

"That the administration of the military government has been incompetent, wasteful and extravagant."

After reviewing the circumstances incident to the occupation, the Knowles report declared that never in the history of San Domingo had there been a disturbance comparable to one that recently occurred at Tula; that lynchings are unknown and that life on the island is more secure than on Broadway or in Central Park, New York.

CHARGES WOMAN TWICE GOT INTO HIS HOME BY WINDOW

Man Reports Watch Missing and It Is Said to Have Been Found in Prisoner's Home.

James Sowers, 3230 N. North Broadway yesterday caused the arrest of Mrs. Anna Koenig, 23 years old, of 3145 North Eleventh street, whom he accused of climbing through a window into his home on two occasions last night.

A watch, he said, was stolen from his room and a search of the woman's home, the police say, revealed the watch hidden under a mattress of her bed.

Sowers said he was awakened the first time about 6 a. m. and saw the window open and the woman in his room. When he asked her business there she asked if a man named "Daniel" lived there. When told no one of that name was known there she departed. An hour later, Sowers reported, he again found her in the home, and this time she said she had returned to borrow $1 from a woman in the house. Sowers followed her to her home on this occasion and called the police. She denied being away from her home all night.

GUEST FOUND HIDING IN HOME

Policemen called to the home of Edward Fagin, 2327 Lafayette avenue, at 2 a. m. yesterday, took charge of George Putney, 20 years old, of 4221 Kennerly avenue, a clerk whom they found in charge of two neighbors in the Fagin home. Putney, the neighbors said, had been found by them hiding behind a door in a room at the rear of the Fagin home after the neighbors had been attracted by screams of Little Fagin, a daughter, and Pearl Scaggs, a guest at the home.

Investigation, Capt. Kirk reported, revealed a party had been given Saturday night at the Fagin home. Putney was one of the guests. At midnight the guests departed, as did Fagin, to accompany one of them home. He had not returned when the girls said they were awakened by Putney, crawling in a window, and screaming, attracting neighbors. Putney said he "didn't know what he was doing," the police reported.

Lights Match at Gasoline Tank.

Robert Erskine, owner of a garage at 5300 Delmar boulevard, had just finished pouring gasoline into the tank of an automobile owned by Morris Burkes of Wellston, at noon yesterday, when Burkes struck a match and held it at the orifice to see if the tank was full. The explosion damaged Burkes' machine $50 and that of Mrs. Ella Rubenstein, 704 A Goodfellow avenue, $100.

400 ST. LOUISANS JOIN THE KU KLUX KLAN

Grand Goblin of Order Here for Several Days Enrolling Members.

F. A. Crippen of New Orleans, who said he was Grand Goblin of the Mississippi Valley division of the Ku Klux Klan, and was at the Planters Hotel several days last week, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that "more than 400" residents of St. Louis had enrolled in the order.

A meeting of about 200 men, held in the second floor ballroom of the Planters Saturday night, was believed to be a meeting of the Klan, but Crippen would not admit that this was the case. Previous Saturday night meetings have been held at the same place, and the arrangements with the hotel management have been made in the name of "The Missouri Business Men's Association." At one meeting, some of those attending were seen, from outside rooms, to be wearing long white robes.

Crippen said the Klan was organized in 1865, with the intention that it should be reorganized if the country became "disorderly." The reorganization, he said, was planned in Atlanta, he said, with Simmons of that organization as a belief. Simmons is Imperial Wizard of the order, and a full-page article of the St. Louis newspaper Saturday in which he said the Klan was an order with a picturesque secret ritual, that it requires of members a belief in the Christian religion, and that its doctrine is white supremacy in the United States, both as relating to the negro race and the Japanese or any other noncaucasian people.

Crippen declared that the Klan was opposed to violence, and that it was pledged to "banish" any member resorting to violence, and to make his name public. He said deeds of violence in Texas, attributed to the organization, were performed by persons not connected with it.

Those seen entering the Planters Hotel meetings have appeared to be chiefly outdoor workers. Some are war service men. The annual dues of members here are to be $5 each. Plans are being made for a meeting, at which Grand Wizard Simmons may appear, and at which talks will be made on the principles of the order. Outsiders will be admitted to this meeting, Crippen said. Admission to the meetings at the Planters has been by a secret password.

(Copyright, 1921.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Great Britain would like to broaden the Anglo-Japanese alliance so that its place would be a treaty between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Indications of the British desire have reached here in a purely informal way and throw an interesting light on the motives and hopes of the Powers who will be assembled at the Washington conference. The United States Government has not been asked to become a party to the Anglo-Japanese alliance—nothing so formal as that has been suggested, though it is interesting to note that the Japanese press as early as last June began discussing just such a plan.

The American Government is aware of the British attitude as reflected in the statement made to the dominion Premiers and it is considered the better part of wisdom here to make no comment, direct or indirect, upon the vicissitudes of British diplomacy.

Yet the big facts are coming on slowly to show why the Washington conference was summoned and why were the controlling influences in the conversations which preceded the decision to call the nations together not merely on disarmament, not on Far Eastern questions.

Significant Statement.
The most significant fact from the British thus far, which has not failed to be noticed here, is the following sentence in the summary of the official proceedings of the imperial conference of dominion Premiers:

"In accordance with the suggestion which was believed to have been made by the American Government that the conference on disarmament should be preceded by friendly conversations or consultations between the Powers principally concerned with the future of the Far East and the Pacific, the imperial conference anxious that, for the Anglo-Japanese agreement, there should be substituted some larger arrangement between the three great Powers concerned, namely, the United States, Japan and Great Britain, discussed these preliminary conversations or consultations which the American Government had in principle agreed should be held in London."

The British official account indicates that, owing to a misunderstanding as to the nature of the suggested preliminary conversations, the British Government, in declining the Prime Minister Lloyd George and the dominion Premiers, were prepared to attend a meeting in Washington instead of London and Japan "signified her willingness to attend." But the British official statement goes a step further and remarks that "the American Government, however, did not favor the idea, which was accordingly dropped."

Back of Suggestion.
In other words, back of the suggestion of a preliminary conference at Washington to precede the large conference in November, was a hope that the United States would somehow announce her adherence to an enlarged Anglo-Japanese agreement to be a three-cornered sort of offensive and defensive alliance. The British Government saw in such a pact a way to approach the dominion Premiers and at the same time deal possible friction between the United States and Japan. But the American Government quashed the suggestion of a preliminary conference without even permitting the subject of an enlarged Anglo-Japanese alliance to come up for formal consideration.

So far as the records show, indeed there isn't anything formal in the exchanges between the representatives of the United States and British Governments to indicate that Great Britain asked for our views. Nevertheless, in a purely personal way, much information as the British may have sought to determine our attitude was given. America is alone

Just 20 Western Electric Washers

Go on Sale Tomorrow at the Unusually Low Price of

In Perfect
Mechanical Condition

$99

But Slightly
Marred in Shipment

$150 Is the Regular Price.
Just These 20 at $99.

Every one of these machines is new and in perfect working order. Every one is capable of rendering the same week-after-week service that ten thousand and more other Western Electric Washers are rendering in as many St. Louis homes. The scratches they have received in shipment are slight—so slight, indeed, as to be hardly noticeable.

But the merchandising standards we have always maintained do not permit us to offer these Machines as "firsts." Therefore we have classed them as "seconds" (although they are perfect mechanically) and have reduced the price on them to $99—and that's more than one-third less than regular price.

But, remember, there are only twenty of these machines. At $99 we expect them to sell quickly. If you want one of them, make sure of getting it by coming early tomorrow.

The Western Electric Washer is equipped with a convenient electrically operated swinging wringer. There are no chains to break or belts to slip on the Western Electric. All moving parts are enclosed—it's safe to operate. It's economical of current, too. 5c worth of electricity will run it long enough to do the average washing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Great Britain would like to broaden the Anglo-Japanese alliance so that in place of a treaty between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Indications of the British desire have reached here in a purely informal way and throw an interesting light on the motives and hopes of the Powers who will be assembled at the Washington conference.

The United States Government has not been asked to become a party to the Anglo-Japanese alliance—nothing so formal as that has been suggested, though it is interesting to note that the Japanese press as early as last June began discussing just such a plan.

The American Government is aware of the British attitude as reflected in the statements made to the dominion Premiers and it is considered the better part of wisdom here to make no comment, direct or indirect, upon the vicissitudes of British diplomacy.

Yet the facts are coming out pretty clearly to show why the Washington conference was summoned and what were the controlling influences in the conversations which preceded the decision to call the nations together, not merely on disarmament, but on Far Eastern questions.

Significant Statement.
The most significant statement from the British thus far, which has not failed to be noticed here, is the following sentence in the summary of the official proceedings of the dominion conference of dominion Premiers:

"In accordance with the suggestion which was believed to have been made by the American Government that the conference on disarmament should be preceded by friendly conversations or consultations between the Powers principally concerned in the future of the British Empire, the dominion Premiers, anxious that, for the Anglo-Japanese agreement, there should be substituted some larger arrangement between the three great Powers concerned, namely, the United States, Japan and Great Britain, discussed these preliminary conversations or consultations which the American Government had in principle agreed should be held in London."

The British official account indicates that, owing to the standing as "to the nature of the suggested preliminary conversations," the British Government, including Prime Minister Lloyd George and the dominion Premiers, were prepared to attend a meeting in Washington in all of London and Japan "signified their willingness to attend." But the British official summary goes a step further and remarks that "the American Government, however, did not favor the idea, which was, accordingly, dropped."

Back of Suggestion.
In other words, back of the suggestion of a preliminary conference at Washington to precede the larger conference in November, was a hope that the United States would somehow announce her adherence to an enlarged Anglo-Japanese agreement to be a three-cornered sort of offensive and defensive alliance. The British Government saw in such a pact a way to appease the dominion Premiers and at the same time to heal possible friction between the United States and Japan. But the American Government squelched the suggestion of a preliminary conference without even permitting the subject of an enlarged Anglo-Japanese alliance to come up for formal consideration.

So far as the records show, indeed, there isn't anything formal in the exchanges between the representatives of the United States and British Governments to indicate that Great Britain asked for four views. Nevertheless, in a purely personal way much information as the British may have sought to determine our attitude was given. America is absolutely opposed to dual alliances or three-cornered treaties of any kind involving such obligations as are contained in the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

To be sure, the Harding administration has placed itself on record as opposed to any arrangement, even though it included the Powers of the world, such as the league covenant proposed, whereby obligations of a military character are directly or indirectly implied or expressed.

Administration Attitude.
Feeling that way about the League of Nations, a proposal for a three-cornered treaty would meet the same fate. The British have not yet learned the depth of feeling in the Harding administration on that phase of international affairs, as only a few days ago the Associated Press dispatches referred again to the hope of British officials that America would help in the negotiation of a pact that would be substituted for the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

The American attitude toward the Far East which at this time in a discussion of her own desires or plans. She wants the Powers who are invited here to do the suggesting and mold the program. There isn't any "American attitude" toward the Far East which can be reduced to concrete terms. It absolutely conforms for the moment to the general terms of the invitations sent all the Powers. Beyond that the Washington Government hasn't ventured and would prefer not to assume an initiative that might be misunderstood. The Washington Government has nothing up its sleeve. In the words of President Harding himself, the United States is eager to "lay all the cards on the table face up."

CHEMISTRY AT PLAY PRODUCES SILK PURSE FROM SOW'S EARS

Answer to Old Adage to Be Shown at Exposition in New York in September.

By the Associated Press.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 15.—A silk purse made from sow's ears, as chemistry's answer to the old saying that it couldn't be done, will be shown at the chemistry exposition in New York during the week of Sept. 12.

In announcing the successful result of experiments, Arthur D. Little, Inc., chemists and engineers, of this city, said the silk was not very strong and that there was no present industrial value in the process involved. It was more or less the product of chemistry at play, but a contribution also to philosophy in proving the fallacy of the old proverb.

In recting the factors that entered into the transition of sow's ears from Chicago stockyards to a silk purse such as a woman might carry, the chemists explained that the first step was to analyze the silkworm's method of making silk. This done, its caterpillar chemistry was copied in the laboratory.

It was found that man had to provide a substitute for a process by which the silkworm exudes from two fine ducts in its head minute threads of viscous liquid, coated with another secretion, which are cemented into a double strand. This becomes a firm filament of silk when it coagulates on reaching the air.

Analysis of this viscous liquid showed it to be like glue and with somewhat similar chemical properties. The sows' ears being chiefly gristle and skin, also has the natural elements of glue. This was obtained from the ears and it was put through several processes of preparation, filtered under pressure and placed in spinning apparatus of a special design.

The solution of glue and chemicals came out as 16 very fine colorless streams joined into one composite fiber, treated to give it strength and color, and processed yet again to obtain the desired soft, silky feel. The weaving followed on a small hand loom, the fabric was formed and the purse made.

GOVERNMENT RAIL CONTROL COMES TO AN END IN BRITAIN

Under New Act Rates, Fares and Wages Will Be in Hands of a Tribunal.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 15.—Government control of the British railways, begun at the opening of the railway war, ceased last night at midnight. The stockholders of the railway companies during the last seven years have had their dividends guaranteed on a pre-war basis.

The new act governing the future of the railroad administration becomes operative almost immediately. Under the act, rates and fares will be fixed by a tribunal. Wages and labor conditions generally also will be in the hands of the tribunal.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 15.—More than 5000 delegates had arrived here this morning for the silver jubilee convention of the National Dentists' Association, and officials declared that 7000 would be on hand when the sessions opened Tuesday morning. Monday is devoted to registration and sectional meetings. Most of the delegates spent Sunday motoring or on the golf links.

CENTRAL TRADES VOTES TO COMBAT 'AMERICAN PLAN'

Movement by Employers
Branded as One for Open
Shop and Declared to Be Led by C. of C.

GENERAL COMMITTEE TO DIRECT OPPOSITION

Effort to Be Made to Enlist
Every Union Man in City
in Campaign of Retaliation.

The Central Trades and Labor Union, representing approximately 60,000 organized workmen, in a resolution adopted at its semi-monthly meeting yesterday, expressed its opposition to the open-shop policy adopted by employers in several industrial groups. The resolution provides for a campaign of "organization, education and retaliation to combat the false and vicious non-union propaganda, which is now for the first time, publicly led by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce."

Text of Resolution.

Following is the text of the resolution:
"Whereas, the open-shop advocates camouflaging sacrilegiously under the title, 'American plan,' are becoming continuously more aggressive, not only in highly financed propaganda, but in direct efforts, also highly financed, in their determination to replace union shops in all lines of industry, and

"Whereas, President Goetz of the American Federation of Labor and the international officers of all of the unions to which we respectively belong are appealing to us to take the aggressive in concerted action to counteract the false and vicious non-union propaganda, now, for the first time, publicly led by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Central Trades and Labor Union of St. Louis and vicinity, that the president be instructed to appoint a general committee for organization, education and retaliation, said committee to take charge of the general union shop fight with a view to enlisting every union member and all of our friends, men and women, in this campaign, and be it further

"Resolved, That the Central Trades and Labor Union here and now starts this great movement 'that never stops until the free American laborer and his family are assured of their rights; until industrial peace and good will, now interrupted by the cruel and wicked attacks of the Chamber of Commerce, have been restored; until those responsible for business and industrial anarchy are driven from the public view, and until business and commerce are resumed in St. Louis through negotiation, conciliation and arbitration."

Signed by 20 Delegates.
The resolution, signed by 20 delegates, was presented by Percy Pepon, president of Typographical Union No. 8, who reviewed the controversy between the employing commercial printers and the organized printing craft. He said the employment of printers had a fund of $3,000,000 which was being used to fight the union printers.

"The money has been obtained from credit furnished by banks," said he, "by the same banks which have refused us credit if it is necessary for us to do so to win our fight we can withdraw our savings accounts. This would be a serious blow to our enemies, for the life and blood of a bank is in its savings deposits, and it is the workman who has placed the money in the savings deposits."

Following suggestions by several speakers, President Hauser appointed a committee, consisting of the 20 signers of the resolution, himself and Secretary Kreyling, to organize a general committee of ward and general units to combat the open-shop sentiment with sound argument.

"The situation should be carefully analyzed," he said, "and the best trained representatives of organized labor should be marshaled to fight misleading statements that are calculated to poison the minds of the public against trades unionism."

REPULSE OF GREEK PATROLS REPORTED IN ASIA MINOR

By the Associated Press.

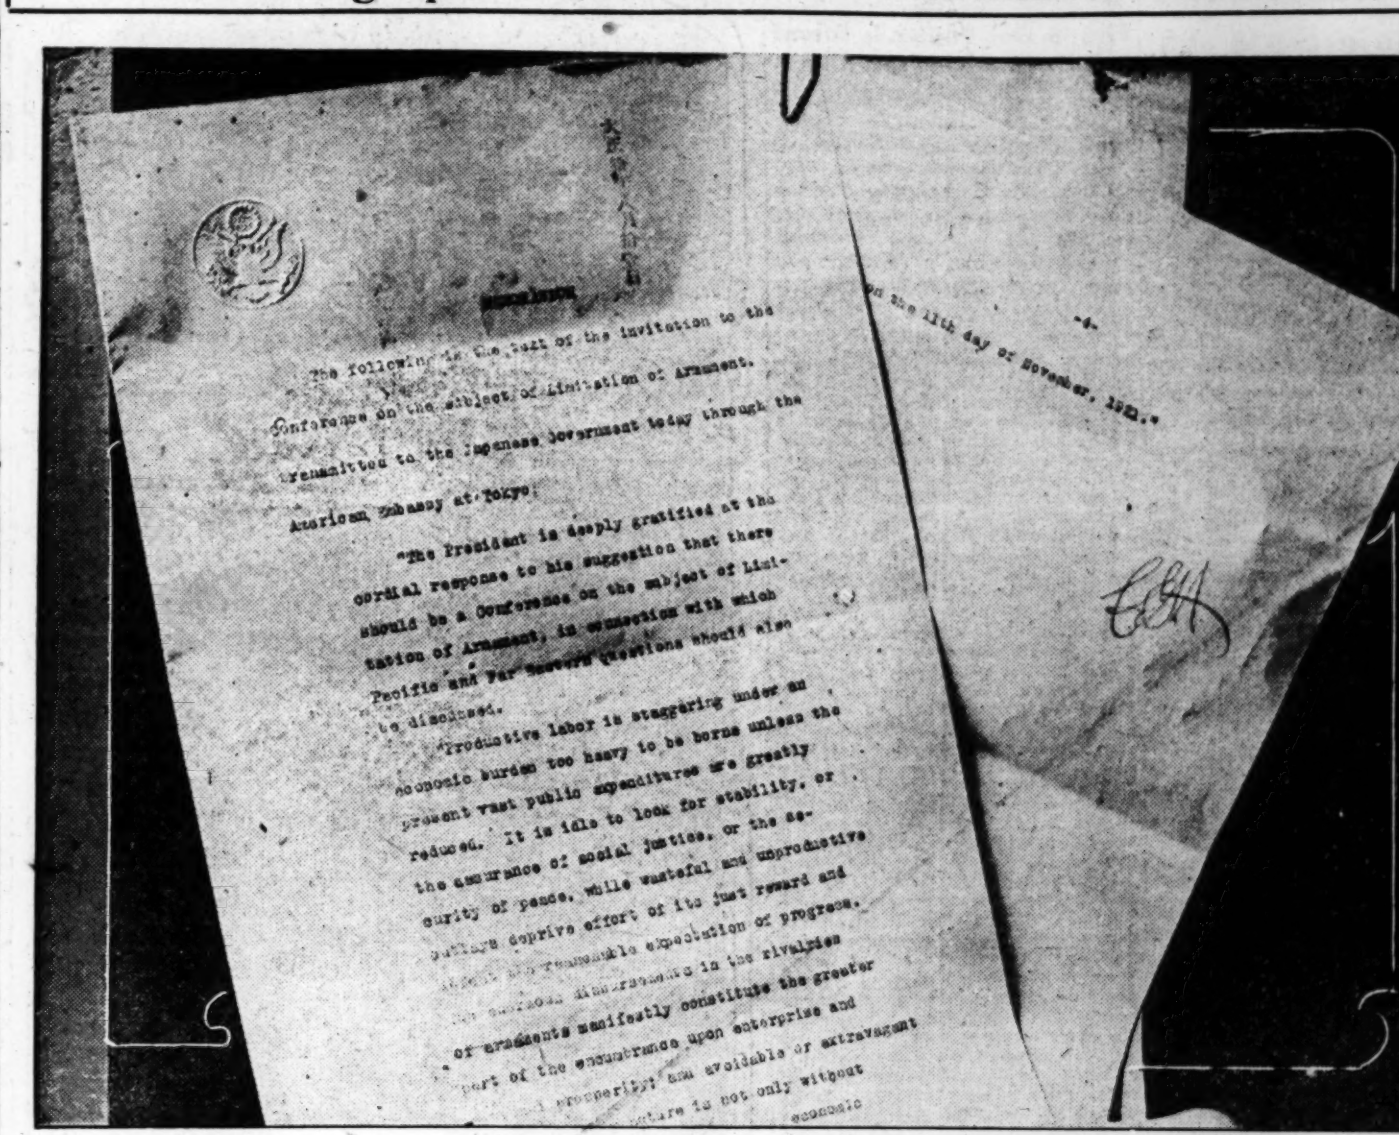

ATHENS, Aug. 15.—The repulse of Greek patrols before Nicos (Iskenderlik), is reported in an official statement on military operations in Asia Minor, issued by the general staff on Aug. 12. All other sectors of the front are calm.

Advices from a reliable source in Smyrna announce that a resumption of the Greek offensive is imminent.

"It is the biggest thing the West ever attempted," declared Everett Buckingham, head of the stockyards, the largest business interest in Nebraska. "The Pulitzer trophy race makes perfect the program for the International Air Congress," commented Walter W. Head, president of the Omaha National Bank, the principal financial institution in the State.

"It puts Omaha on the aerial map for this year," asserts John W. Gam-

OMAHA PLEASED TO GET PULITZER AIR RACE

Newspapers and Business Join in Enthusiasm Over Award of Contest.

By the Associated Press.
OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 15.—Announcement that the Pulitzer trophy air race is to be held at Omaha in November has been received with interest and pleasure by all this city. The announcement was given front-page space in every Sunday newspaper in the city and each devoted a full column to the details of the contest, which is to be held in connection with the International Aero Congress.

"The promise that the Pulitzer trophy race will come to Omaha absolutely clinches the certainty that this will be the greatest meeting of airmen the world has ever witnessed," says E. W. Porter, president of the International Aero Congress and head of the Nebraska branch of the Aero Club of America.

"Biggest thing Omaha and the West has ever held," Mayor James C. Dahlman of Omaha wired from Boston, where he is spending a week. "Accept my congratulations."

The contest, which is to be held in connection with the International Aero Congress, will be a contest of speed and endurance. It will be a contest of the world's best aviators, and it will be a contest of the world's best aircraft.

Governor to Back Project.
Gov. S. P. McKelvie of Nebraska, who assisted in "landing" the Pulitzer trophy race for Omaha, yesterday morning telephoned from Lincoln to the committee. Gov. McKelvie promised to put the influence of his office behind the aerial meeting.

Raymond Farquhar, president of the Nebraska State Aero Association, is another enthusiast for the Pulitzer race.

"It means that where we expected 10,000 airmen at the reunion we will have 20,000," said Farquhar. "It means that all the really big aerial racers in the world will be at the congress. It means that instead of probably 50,000 visitors there will be 100,000 persons from outside Omaha and vicinity to see the congress."

The Pulitzer trophy race will start from the grounds of the International Aero Congress on the Florence boulevard, within two blocks of a street car line, on three different railroads and on the principal boulevard out of Omaha. By street car it is within 15 minutes of the heart of the city.

Praise From Business Men.

SPANISH LOSSES 3000 IN DEFEAT BY MOORISH TRIBESMEN

Havana Paper Reports Airdromes Also Lost by
Gen. Silvestre's Column—Silvestre Either
Was Killed or Ended His Life.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Aug. 15.—Spanish losses in the defeat by the Moorish tribesmen in Morocco, of the column of Gen. Silvestre are placed at 3000 in a dispatch from its Madrid correspondent published yesterday by El Mundo. The booty captured by the tribesmen, the correspondent adds, is placed at more than 20,000,000 pesetas, while airdromes at Mador and Zeluan, with machines and equipment, fell into the hands of the natives. In addition to the defeat against him, Gen. Silvestre, it is declared, although wounded in the chest, fought until the last, when he either was killed or committed suicide.

Viccount D'Eza, War Minister in the Spanish Cabinet, which has just resigned, is quoted as stating that the Silvestre tragedy meant the destruction of the Mellilla military district of which only the ruins remain.

ble, vice president of the First National Bank.

"The winner of the Pulitzer trophy is chosen by the great flyer than any man has ever yet traveled, regardless of the vehicle used," said President Porter of the International Aero Congress.

In addition to the Pulitzer trophy and the $5000 prize in that contest, Omaha business men have put up $30,000 in prizes to be awarded during the congress.

REPUBLICAN GOVERNMENT AT CHITA REPORTED OVERTHROWN

Advices Received at Vladivostok Saturday Say Military Stores Were Fired by Incoming Troops.

By the Associated Press.
VLADIVOSTOK, Saturday, Aug. 13.—The Eastern Siberian republic, with headquarters at Chita, has been overthrown by anti-Bolshevik forces, according to unconfirmed reports from foreign sources received here. These reports declared the military stores of the Chita Government had been fired and the Government had fled.

Under pressure of the anti-Bolsheviks, who occupied Chita, the reports say the Bolshevik troops withdrew to the west in the direction of Verkh-Udinsk, with the intention of joining troops from Irkutsk. No official confirmation has been received of the reports.

Advices from Manchuria say that foreigners there claim to have received confirmation of the overthrow of the Chita Government.

GEORGE WHITE ASSAILS FORDNEY TARIFF PLAN

"People Won't Be Fooled by G. O. P. Efforts to Make Show of Economy," He Says.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The administration tax revision program was attacked last night by Chairman White of the Democratic National Committee, who declared in a formal statement that business men would not be fooled by the methods adopted by the Republicans "in order to make a false show of economy."

"The sudden change in the Republican tax bill program decided upon at the recent White House conference," said White, has only added confusion and uncertainty to the Government's fiscal situation, and business and financial circles generally are surprised and disappointed at President Harding's repudiation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon as his fiscal adviser and his recognition instead of Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee as the financial guide of his administration.

Assaults Fordney Bill.
"Secretary Mellon told Congress, presumably with the knowledge and approval of the President, that he will need $4,554,999,000 to meet Government expenses for the next fiscal year. He told Congress also that in view of these expenditures, taxes cannot be reduced. This meant, of course, that the Republican campaign promise to reduce Federal taxes would not, and, in fact, could not, be kept."

"Chairman Fordney, who wrote the wonderful tariff bill of which the Senate is expected to leave only the enacting clause, came to the political rescue of the administration and announced a plan to reduce taxes, regardless of the amount of money needed to meet expenditures, which would create a deficit to be taken care of by borrowing the money, thus increasing the public debt, but, as the optimistic Mr. Fordney saw it, his plan would make it appear that the party was keeping its campaign pledge to reduce taxes and was making a grand record."

"People Won't Be Fooled."
"Upon his return from his vacation, President Harding was called upon to choose between the Mellon plan of providing for enough revenue to meet expenditures and the Fordney plan for juggling the taxes by fictitious reductions and a false show of economy. He chose the Fordney plan, seemingly sacrificing an honest financial policy to political expediency which can deceive nobody."

"The business world has waited long for a sane and honest revenue act, in order to adjust its affairs and escape the business stagnation caused by two years' delay under Republican rule in revising the internal taxes.

"It will not be satisfied with this sort of political juggling. Speaking as a business man, myself, I warn the Republican administration that business men will not be fooled by such methods in order to make a false show of economy."

The Ways and Means Committee draft of the tax revision bill has been put in form for presentation today to the conference of House Republicans, which will decide upon the procedure for House consideration which is expected to begin Wednesday and end with a vote late Saturday.

CRANE SAYS RUSSIA HAS DROPPED BACK INTO DARK AGES

CULTURE AND OLD HOSPITALITY GONE

People, Deprived of Newspapers, Lost to Outside World and Are Falling
Into Ways of Barbarism.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—A country dropped back into the barbarism of the Dark Ages is the picture of Russia sketched by Charles R. Crane, former Minister to China from the United States, who decided upon and carried out the seemingly impossible project of returning from Pekin across Siberia.

Crane, who arrived in Berlin yesterday, looks no worse for his two months of adventurous journey across the land of the Bolsheviks. His opinion carries weight, for no one who has visited Russia from the outside in three years is so well equipped to understand and judge what is going on behind the rigid frontier that has been established by the Soviet Government as he. He has been interested in the lack of newspapers through the provinces leaves the people so ignorant of what the world is doing that they have fallen back into the kind of life they led several hundred years ago.

"As we passed communities practically cut off from the world for several years it was like a journey in Russia before the time of Peter the Great. All European culture brought to Russia has gone and with it the agreeable cheeriness characteristic of the Russian people. Always before when I went to Russia I had a pleasant sensation of the hospitality of the people. I felt everywhere welcome and happy in just among them."

"But that old charm of Russia has gone. Neither interest nor easy hospitality remains. The greatest impression made upon me was the way the European varnish has disappeared. Modern Russia is no more. In more than one way Russia today is selling the last remains of old European civilization."

"With a free law, everyone is out bartering, but with nothing but miserable remnants to barter. A curious example was seeing a girl with a few old gramophones needed to sell."

"I had an excellent reason for the voyage, as I am interested in a factory, formerly at Petrograd, now Jaroslavl—one of three factories now operating in all of Russia. Near Jaroslavl there is what is called the 'Locomotive graveyard,' where every day locomotives are scrapped."

"When I arrived at Moscow I made an official call on Chibrikov, who refused to see me, so I considered it unnecessary to make a further effort to visit. I spent the time trying to find what old acquaintances were possibly there. We were left alone and went about freely. When I was agreed, after a delay, that I might also visit Petrograd, I was permitted to remain only two days."

"For several reasons I don't wish to discuss politically what I saw in Russia. As a journey it succeeded, but it was a tough and go all the way."

Ex-Minister Crane remained in Berlin only long enough to change trains and lunch with Commissioner Drewel. He has gone to Prague for a short visit before returning to the United States.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

Practice Does It.

THE professional athlete beats the amateur athlete because he practices more. He gets his hand in from playing baseball or golf or boxing. Let him get stale and his bread and butter is gone. He is either practicing or he is not. He can't keep his hand in with a few practice strokes. He must practice as it is to the professional boxer or golfer. You must practice enough to keep your hand in. But remember you are not making money out of golf or boxing, but out of your profession or trade. That is what you need to practice.

DEMOSTHENES had a bad voice and an impediment in his speech. He was rid of both by practice. Going down to the shore he talked against the roar of the surf. When he was able to make people hear him above the noise of the waves he put pebbles in his mouth and practiced again. After his voice overcame the handicap of both pebbles and waves he began to speak as an orator. But his practice was not done. He had to learn to choose words and sentences then, and that, too, required practice. It is better in practicing minor things to do so in private. If your English is bad, don't try to improve it while you are writing business letters. Write letters that will not be read and go over them, and correct them.

STEVENSON wrote thousands and thousands of words that no man ever saw but, himself, merely to make his sentences flow more smoothly. The results of his practice may be found in his collected works. You know the things in which you are deficient. Practice doing them. The deficiency disappears. It will take time and patience, but your success depends upon it. If a ball player can afford to spend five or six hours a day throwing a ball, merely to earn a livelihood for a short space of his life, surely you can afford to spend the same amount of time in the job that you must depend on till you die or acquire your fortune. "Well, go ahead! I am counting on paying you by getting into the movies."

CLIPPINGS By Holworthy Hall

A Short Story in Five Daily Installments.

(Copyright, 1921.)

"On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Mead will give a large dinner and dance at the Golf and Country Club. On Friday, the Alton B. Masons will entertain at dinner the Committee on Arrangements for the charity ball, of which Mrs. Mead is chairman. On Friday, a special performance of 'Florodora' will be given by the Amateur Comedy Club, for the benefit of the County Orphanage. Among the boxholders are Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Mead."

IN the first instant of his recovery, and before his imagination had caught up with the clock, he felt as though he had been unconscious for at least an hour. He was bewildered to find himself in the same room, and among the same people. In the next instant, however, his sense of hearing confirmed his sense of sight, and he realized that his vertigo couldn't have endured for more than a few seconds. Not even the topics of conversation had changed. With a pronounced reaction of instinct, Stephen drew a deep and cautious breath, and wondered what it was that had happened to him.

An analogy crept into his mind, and distressed him. It was only yesterday that half way up a hill the clutch of his roadster had unexpectedly slipped and given him a startling impression of helplessness, plus insecurity. Tonight, it was as though his mentality had likewise slipped its clutch, and for a breathless interval left him no control over the workings of his brain. There was this defect in the analogy: the engine of his motor had raced free, while Stephen's brain had simply ceased to function.

His furtive survey of the table proved that no one had detected him in his weakness. This relieved him somewhat; but there remained, a considerable residue of embarrassment, and a very constricting afterglow of alarm. He shook his head briskly, to see if the exertion made him dizzy. It did. He resolved to drink a glass of water, and watched his own hand carefully to see if it trembled. It did. So these were the premonitory symptoms of a nervous breakdown. He had laughed at the doctor and made flippant comments; so that the present embarrassment was more shame and more resentment than it costs a beautiful woman to admit that she has lost both her beauty and her youth.

Nor was he prepared to admit, even now, that the doctor's judgment was sound. The room was too warm; his collar was too tight; the day had been exceptionally oppressive. A dozen years ago Stephen had been one of a little group to trot out to a great amphitheater, and battle with another little group for possession of a muddy football, while half of the 40,000 spectators used his name in apprehension, and the balance of them never used it in vain. In the springtime of those other years he had sat with his friends in a fragile shell and roved the enemy into complete submission. He had gone blithely into the gymnasium one rainy afternoon and emerged blithely from it an hour later as a record-holder, the strongest man according to the modern system of determining strength, who had ever attended his university. The record was today unbroken. And Stephen, sitting reticent at the head of the table, was said by his doctor to be on the verge of breakdown. The woman at his right was still talking and Stephen said to himself that her inflections were buttered. That was it—buttered. Her smooth, affectionate filled him with an hysterical desire to throw something at her. Of a sudden he wanted to drop back limply and laugh away his contempt for himself, and his wife, and his guests, and the whole of society. He was committed to the payment of $12 a plate for the best of all possible Country Club dinners, and the effect upon his guests was no greater than if he had fed them on ham and eggs. It was utter farce, and utter wastage, when the credit of the nation was tottering, and Stephen's own credit was a matter of perhaps no later than tomorrow.

In connection with this last idea he reviewed the distressing fact that Amy would never let him mention money to her, except in terms of immediate endowment. She used to say: "Now, dearest—just tell me what I can have, but please don't explain why you can't give me any more." Figures are little Satans to me.

His forehead had become queerly cold, and he wanted to shut his eyes, and go to sleep, but at this juncture, a dem-tasse was put before him, and when he had swallowed it he felt that his brain had been dragged involuntarily back to the arena. The girl on his left turned toward him, and Stephen shuddered. He doubted whether he could compel himself to listen to a conversation. "I haven't meant to be rude to you," she said, confidentially. "You know that, don't you?"

He regarded her with stolid inquiry. "You couldn't be rude to anybody," he said. SHE laughed a little, and he was vaguely refreshed. She was a brown-eyed, brown-haired little girl, with a certain downright manner which even in his supreme languor, he found attractive. He struggled for an adjective to fit her, but his mind refused to jump. He tried to remember her name, and couldn't. Nor could he remember anything in her demeanor to suggest rudeness. Indeed, for the past half-hour he had been grateful to her because she had been monopolized by someone else.

She laughed a little, and took away her attention, but Stephen was aware, through the haze of his thoughts, that she had been sympathetic. He sat listlessly staring at his cup. There was an interlude of idyllic blankness, and with no recollection of the effort, he was standing at the door of the ballroom, and Amy was at his elbow. She was the most ethereal woman he had ever known; delicate of feature, flower-like of complexion, slender and altogether flawless, she awed him even now with her exquisite presence. He had said to her, once, that whenever he took her in his arms he felt like a North Woods lumberjack holding a lady's child.

"You were awfully stupid at dinner, dear. Do pull yourself together for the rest of the evening, won't you?" Stephen looked down at her, and hesitated. If her tone had held the faintest imaginable trace of annoyance he would certainly have lost restraint of himself, and slain her with words; but Amy was never provocative. She had the continuous ability to make him feel like a brute, when in the previous moment he had felt like a martyr.

"I'll do the best I can, Amy. I'm pretty tired." "Necesse, she squeezed his hand, and at the contact, Stephen felt like a brute. He also scorned himself for his slip of the tongue. Fatigue was a sign of inferiority.

"Of course you are, poor old boy. But this is my only dance this season. We owe it to each other to make it a success, don't we? It's a perfect shame—only I'm afraid you ought to go the rounds. Don't you think so yourself?" "That's 10 dances, anyway," Stephen's mouth twitched at the prospect.

"Only 10, dear. But I told them to have good intermissions—that'll be a help. And think of poor little me. There are lots more people coming in."

Stephen wet his lips. "How late is it going to last?" "Oh, I engaged the orchestra until half-past two." She put her hand on his arm. "Why don't you hurry up and get your duty done over with, honey? There's that nice Raymond girl. Ask her first, why don't you?"

Obediently, Stephen approached the Raymond girl. There was practically no use in hoping that she didn't dance, but Stephen hoped it, nevertheless. Thin-lipped, he bowed to Miss Raymond, and asked if he might have the pleasure of a one-step. She glanced at him, and smiled. "To tell the truth," she said in her oddly confidential manner, "I'm not quite ready to dance yet. It's frightfully warm in here, too. Would you mind so very much if we went and just sat it out on the loggia?"

With all the emotions of a liberated peon, he followed her. Out through the living room of the club they went, to the fresh air. There were seductive wicker chairs in the foreground, but she passed them by; and Stephen, dispossessed of resistance, followed on. She turned into a small squared recess, and there she halted. The recess held two of the wicker chairs.

"This is restful," he said spontaneously. "I thought you'd like it." He sat down wearily, like an old man. "Will you smoke a cigarette, Miss Raymond? Then may I?"

To his unlimited amazement she put out her hand in protest. "Please don't smoke any more." "I beg your pardon. He had never dreamed of any but the formal response to his formal request. He felt cheated, and outraged.

"Please don't smoke any more. You've smoked a dozen already, and it's the worst thing you could possibly do."

Her tone was irresistibly gentle and persuasive, and Stephen had no surplus will power to use in combat. He inspected the cigarette, and sighed. "I suppose it is, but a man has to do something to keep going." She was looking steadily at him, and yet there was no hint of coquetry about her. Her attitude reminded him of the doctor's. "What is it—business?" she asked. For a score of years Stephen had prided himself upon his suppression of all data concerning the state of his health. A man should be tireless, energetic, virile; and when these qualities eluded him, he sought to counteract them. Now, he was suddenly moved to confession by a girl he scarcely knew.

"Things are sort of piling up," he said lamely. "I don't suppose it's so much that, though, as it is the weather."

"How long do you spend in your office, Mr. Mead?"

"Why, for the last month I've averaged about 10 or 11 hours."

"And then you go out every night and stay up until 1 or 2 o'clock, and must yourself with coffee and tobacco. Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

What to Do Until the Doctor Comes

Erysipelas.

SOME persons are much more susceptible to the germ which causes erysipelas than others, and, although we may boast that we are perfectly healthy and could not possibly be attacked in this manner, we never know at what moment something untoward may arise and predispose one to the virus. For instance, an ulcerated tooth or series of ulcerated teeth may so weaken the soft tissues of the cheek as to invite the germ of this disease to find a ready lodgement there. I have such a case under observation now.

While we look for this condition at the site of a wound, it does occur without any noticeable break in the skin, and is usually seen on the face in the springtime. It develops in from three to seven days. As a rule there is a chill and fever; headache, sometimes vomiting and more or less lassitude.

The favorite site for the eruption is at the corner of the mouth, junction of the nose and cheek, corner of the eye, or a patch of red may appear on the cheek. It then spreads over the face. Erysipelas of the face rarely travels to the body, but may be so severe that the entire face is swollen beyond recognition. Therefore, instant measures to lessen its severity should be enforced, and for this purpose we find the following of signal value: Picric acid solution 1 to 1000, with 12 grams of alcohol added to the liter. It is painted over the diseased area and a dry cotton dressing applied. Repeat every 12 hours. Eruption is checked, temperature reduced and improvement in general condition.

As erysipelas is contagious the patient must be guarded (quarantined) until all scaling ceased. This usually takes two weeks.

If picric acid cannot be procured employ a solution of boric acid, a large teaspoonful to a pint of boiled water which has been cooled. Keep soft cloths wet with this solution in constant contact with the inflamed skin. Painting the borders of the inflamed patch with liquid collodion may prevent its spreading. (Copyright, 1921.)

NEW AND ORIGINAL FASHION DESIGNS

By Mildred Lodewick

WHEN a woman interests herself in the making of a dress at this time of the year, she does so with an eye to the possibilities of the future.

She selects a material that has a certain quality of weight, and a style which suggests dignity. It is all right for summer clothes to flaunt the spirit of gay frivolity, but when the days begin to cool one's clothes take on a more sober aspect expressive of one's sincere attitude of mind. There are a number of delightful fabrics of the desired weight, among them as leaders being cashmere and duvetyne. In some such medium color as dull blue, olive green, or light cinnamon a frock of either of these fabrics would be exceedingly smart for immediate wear, while practical for the cooler late summer days.

I have designed a pretty model featuring the long sleeve and a deep cape collar which stamps it as new and individual. A low pointed opening in the front of the bodice portion gives reason for a refreshing touch of sheer white or ecru as a dainty chemise, marked down the center line with tiny pearl buttons and frills. At the neck a tie of black picot-edged ribbon appears from under the collar at each side to lend a characteristic note. For trimming this simple model bias bands of the dress material are suggested, running down each side of the front from neck to edge of skirt where they turn to surround it. A like band finishes the deep collar, and on the sleeves outlines a shaded opening in the full puffed part, which is narrow, cut confines. A black leather belt completes the waistline.

Her tone was irresistibly gentle and persuasive, and Stephen had no surplus will power to use in combat. He inspected the cigarette, and sighed. "I suppose it is, but a man

How to Reduce Your Weight in Your Home

The Chest Rub, After the Bath, Eliminates Fat and Strengthens Muscular Tissues.

(Copyright, 1921.)

BY DORIS DOSCHER.

IS there anything in the world more refreshing than the rub-downs that follow the bath? They soothe the nerve and nourish the skin, at the same time affording an opportunity for exercise which is corrective as well as constructive.

Numerous requests have come to me from my correspondents for an exercise to reduce the bust equally numerous have been the requests to develop the chest and bust. For both reduction and development of the bust exercise is the best remedy and the rub illustrated is one of the most effective for vitalizing the upper part of the body. This massage will eliminate superfluous fat and strengthen the muscular tissues, giving firmness to the flesh. When the object is to develop the bust, you must stimulate in a gentle manner the circulation of the blood, causing it to deposit new tissues in the part of the body you are manipulating and develop it to almost any desired size.

The backward bending of the head will reduce the chin, lengthen the neck and, in the case of the scrawny neck, will give the flesh around the cords new rotundity. The hands travel from position in illustration with a very light downward stroke.

Old Mr. Toad looked at Peter severely. "Peter Rabbit," said he, "what are you doing in this garden? Have you been getting into mischief again? You know well enough you have no business to be over here."

Peter looked guilty. He thought of certain young cabbage plants he had sampled and hoped Mr. Toad would not find them. "I—I was looking for you," stammered Peter.

"What were you looking for me for?" demanded Old Mr. Toad, looking at Peter suspiciously.

"And—I was afraid I wouldn't find you," continued Peter just as if he hadn't heard Old Mr. Toad's question.

"And why were you afraid you wouldn't find me?" asked Old Mr. Toad.

"Because," began Peter, and fidgeted about uneasily, "because—well, because I feared you might have been at home."

"For goodness' sake, do talk sense, Peter Rabbit!" exclaimed Old Mr. Toad. "If I had been at home you could have found me, couldn't you?"

"No—o, not exactly," replied Peter. "You see, I went there first, and—and—I've got bad news for you, Mr. Toad. Mr. Blacksnake is in this garden. He was just crawling under that board beneath which you make your home. That is why I was afraid I might not find you and why I am so glad I have found you."

Old Mr. Toad had turned quite pale. This was bad news. It was the worst news in all the world. Of all his enemies there is none Old Mr. Toad fears as he does Mr. Blacksnake.

monly met with is a general stooping over or bending of the body. The effects of this can be overcome by today's exercise, as the muscles that are brought into play in the illustration reverse the sagging muscles from the incorrect position. Do not neglect this rub each morning after the bath, because it is going to count so much for the improvement of your figure.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE PARASITE.
He's just an idle, useless chap
Who loafs around all day;
He wouldn't do a single tap
For any wage we'd pay.
He pays for neither board nor room
Yet he is satisfied
To stay and shamelessly consume
What other folks provide.

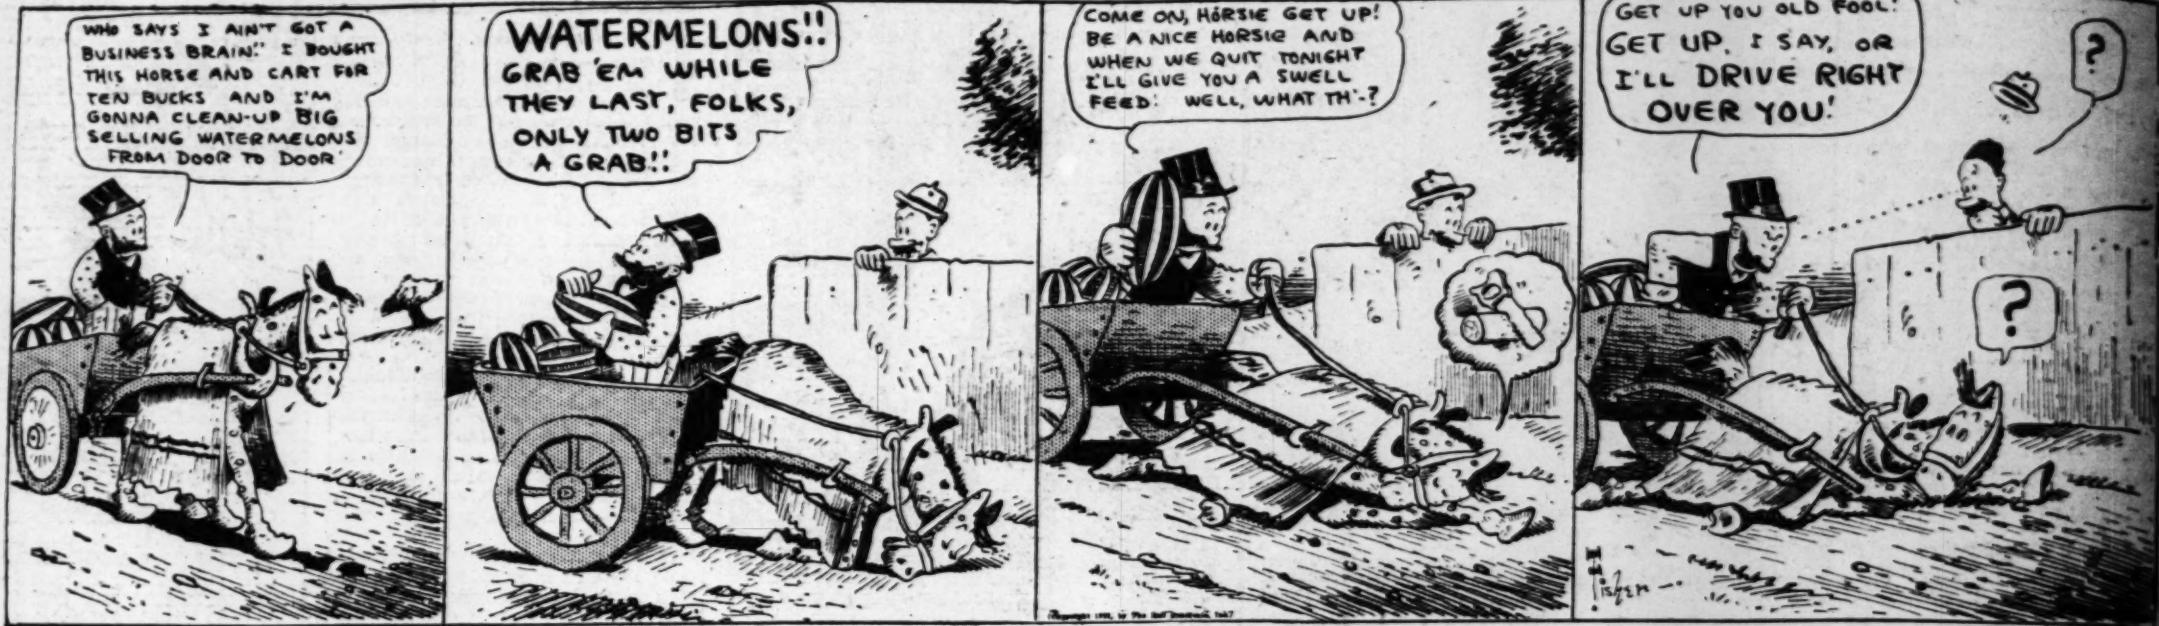

He can't control his appetite,
He often eats until
He wakes in the dead of night
Quite dangerously ill.
And all the time more savage grows
His fierce and bitter mood.
But when he's cured, he never shows
A bit of gratitude.

When he's asleep we dare not speak
Or walk across the floor
Lest in a sudden fit of pique
He wake the folks next door.
But he'll not hesitate to flog
And clamor, no indeed!
When e'er he wants to waken us
To serve his slightest need.

And yet we like to have him round,
He really means no harm,
And since we've known him we have found
He has a certain charm.
His temper will improve, we trust,
His heart may prove pure gold,
There still is time, because he's just
A year and two months old.

GARAGE PROPRIETOR

Inventory of Property
Sister of Ellis Wainwright
Shows Personality of $6
682 Besides Realty.

Miss Dorothy Baker and Clark Kretschmar, sisters of West Pine boulevard, have inherited an estate with an estimated value of $800,000 or more, by the death of their mother, Mrs.
Augusta Baker.

Miss Baker, shortly after the death of her mother, announced her engagement to the Rev. Killian
Stimpson, rector of St. John's
Episcopal Church, 3544 Arsenal avenue. Her sister was married five months ago to Kretschmar, a former Louis University football player, has been at different times a power salesman, a sugar broker, newspaper reporter and an ensign in the navy, and who is now proprietor of a garage at 276 De Baliviere avenue.

Details of Inventory.
An inventory of Mrs. Baker's estate filed yesterday, shows personal property amounting, at par valuation, to $478,682.57. This does not include large real estate holdings and the value of the personal property is said to be considerably more than the par figures.

The details of the inventory show: $255,328.22; stocks, 143, 432.90; bonds and coupons, 116,
cash, $23,850.95; goods and chattels,
$2059.50. The holdings in U.S.
Bonds were $34,000.
Mrs. Baker, who died July 13
last, was the widow of Edward Baker, a brother of Ellis Wainwright, a brewer. The Wainwrights lived at Seventh and Chestnut streets of the first St. Louis office building of modern pattern. She was a member of the family.
Mr. and Mrs. Baker became acquainted in St. John's Episcopal Church through the friendship between her and the Rev. Arthur Brittain, who was rector. Baker was a vestry member of the church, and his wife continued her interest after his death.
Her funeral was held from the church. The Rev. Mr. Brittain died two years ago, and the Rev. Mr. Stimpson was chosen later as rector. He is particularly by the young people of the parish. He is 29 years old.
His acquaintance with Miss Baker began soon after he assumed the rectorate.

Both Homer Hall Graduates
Both Miss Baker and her sister, Mrs. Kretschmar, are graduates of Homer Hall. They inherited $20,000 each from their father, who received nearly $100,000
in bequests from an uncle,
Wainwright of New London, Conn., who died about a year ago.
Kretschmar is a well-known tenor boxer and received a gold cuff from members of the Miss Athletic Association for his exhibitions there. In the navy his wartime service, he rose
"gob" to ensign in 19 months.
